

Following several years in a local church ministry in the U.S. the Bauman's answered God's call to Japan in 1988. Their life experiences in music and parenting have enabled them to help hundreds of churches and missionaries across Japan through both hands-on ministry and the development and publication of a bilingual songbook/CD and mother's parenting guide. Their desire to encourage church multiplication and leadership through media resources led to Gary's appointment as managing editor of the Japan Harvest magazine and Publications Commission chairman of the Japan Evangelical Missionary Association.

"Serving in Japan in Resource Ministries"

Asian Access is an interdenominational evangelical organization that works throughout Asia to identify, develop and release leaders who serve as pastors of growing and reproducing churches. Asian Access is resolved to develop a dynamic network of 5,000 leaders in twenty countries of Asia by 2020—leaders who will unite the church, extend the Kingdom, and transform the cultures of Asia for the glory of God.
